Writing a Report – Choosing a Topic

Week 33

UNIT 9

We write factual reports to present information to our audience. Reports can be about almost anything: science, history, geography, math, art, music, and so on. The first step to writing a report is choosing a topic. Try to pick a topic that you are interested in and that will interest your audience.

Once you choose a topic, you will need to narrow it down.
 Too general: ancient Egypt Specific: how the Egyptians made the pyramids

A. Complete the mind map with ideas you would like to write about. Circle your three favorite ideas.

B. Write a specific topic for these general ideas.

1. animals _____
2. soccer _____
3. musical instruments _____
4. volcanoes _____

C. Circle your favorite topic from above and narrow it down.

Information Sources

Week 33

Try to use as many different types of information sources as you can to research your report. Do not rely on only one source of information.

E. Label the mind map with the names of the information sources.

F. Write the information source(s) you would use to find the information.

1. Information about Mount Everest _____
2. The date of the next Olympic Games _____
3. What school was like when your grandfather was young _____
4. A map of the Monarch butterfly's migration route _____
5. Pictures of your town/city twenty years ago _____

3. Write four sources of information you will use for your report.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
